To qualify for relief association membership an individual must currently or previously have participated in fire service related activities as defined by Section 2(2) of Act 84. Simply being a member of a fire company does not, in itself, justify membership in the relief association.

Membership Classifications: Active - The individual actively participates as an active firefighter or is active in fire service related functions.

Inactive - The individual had previously participated as an active firefighter or in fire service related functions for a specified minimum period.

(Note: Some relief associations have different classes of membership, i.e. Life, Junior, Auxiliary, Associate, etc. "Social" membership status is not an acceptable classification for relief associations.)
